

RISE AND SHINE

(written by Kenneth Cope)

Clear as the sun, fair as the moon
The Light of His word has stirred in you
Gently He calls and beckons you
To shine

Shake off your fears, and awake from sleep
There be more here with us than our eyes can see
So, lift up your head most cheerfully
And shine

Like the dawning across the sky
It's time to rise and shine

Wide is the gate, and broad the way
Where the multitudes walk and wish to stay
But, some among them seek heaven night and day
So shine

Clean up your wick, oh lamp of God
So the spark of His touch can light you up
While raising His standard high enough
To shine, shine, shine

Truth is dawning for all to find
It's your time to rise and shine

Shine like a morning without clouds
Roar like a bonfire in the night
Though the land be darkened
And all hopes grow dim
You were born to shine
So shine!

Clear as the sun, fair as the moon
The Light of His love ignites in you
Ever He calls and beckons you
To shine
Rise and shine
Rise and shine, shine, shine
